

What's In Your Purse!

The Rules

First, print up cards with the list of items commonly found in a woman's purse - and some not so common. The cards contain a list of things, each with a number of points associated with it. Print one copy of the master list and either have the bride randomly choose or (more fun!), cut the list of items into slips, fold them and have the bride draw from a hat or decorated box.

The first guest that calls out that she has an item receives a small prize. The guest that has the most items at the end of the game wins the grand prize for the game.

Guests keep track of their items on the cards that you've printed and distributed. When the last item is announced, ask the guests to tally up their points and find the winner. Confirm the count and award the grand prize for this bridal shower game. Lots of fun that gets everyone involved!
